> "Canada Plans to Euthanize 15 Million People in the Next 20 Years" ~ Kelsi Sheren:

A chilling forecast has been released, and the numbers are nothing short of a national scandal. According to a recent publication in the Journal of Death and Dying, Health Canada has a plan for "savings" that is as brutal as it is unprecedented.

Abstract

This study explores the potential economic savings from expanding medical assistance in dying (MAiD) in Canada, where it is currently a leading cause of death, to include vulnerable groups that cost the government more than they contribute in taxes. These groups include individuals with severe mental health issues, the homeless, drug users, retired elderly, and indigenous communities. Both voluntary and non-voluntary scenarios were analyzed, projecting total savings of up to CAD $1.273 trillion by 2047. With an estimated 2.6 million deaths in the voluntary scenario, mostly among mentally ill and elderly populations, this cost-saving measure raises significant ethical concerns. Financially incentivizing MAiD could

As detailed by Kelsi Sheren, the analysis reveals that from 2027 to 2047, the government is on track to save a staggering $1.273 trillion. How? By providing 14.7 million Canadians with Medical Assistance in Dying (MAID) rather than palliative care.

Let that number sink in: 14.7 million people.

The breakdown of this projection is where the abstract plan reveals a horrifying human cost:

- Over 9 million are projected to be our elderly.

- Over 4 million are projected to be the mentally ill and suicidal.

- Over 300,000 are projected to be from the Indigenous population.

- The remainder are counted among our most vulnerable: addicts and the homeless.

This isn't merely a policy shift; it is a state-sanctioned eugenics program, leveraging despair as a budgetary tool. The expansion set for 2027, which will specifically qualify individuals solely on the basis of mental illness, marks a dark new chapter.

For those who find these statistics as unconscionable as we do, the data is available for public scrutiny in the SAGE Journal and the Journal of Death and Dying. The numbers don't lie. This is the calculated future being built for Canada.
